

WORSHIPPING THE ELEPHANT GOD
At the Elephanta Festival, held annually in honor of Lord Ganesha, the elephant-headed deity, thousands of Hindus from all over the island of Java come to pay their respects at the famous Elephanta Caves. The caves, which are carved out of a single rock formation, feature intricate carvings of the deity. The festival is a time of great religious fervor and celebration, with offerings made to the god.

Celebrating the Elephanta Festival

Celebrating the Elephanta Festival

WORSHIPPING THE ELEPHANT GOD
At the Elephanta Festival, held annually in honor of Lord Ganesha, the elephant-headed deity, thousands of Hindus from all over the island of Java come to pay their respects at the famous Elephanta Caves. The caves, which are carved out of a single rock formation, feature intricate carvings of the deity. The festival is a time of great religious fervor and celebration, with offerings made to the god.

IKIRUN, IJESÀ, IMO

IROHIN IBÉWÓ GOMINA NI NU AWORAN

