WORLD HEALTH MEN

Rush Medical Aid To Cotonou

TO PREVENT EPIDEMICS

DAHOMEY—Immediate assistance is being furnished by the World Health Organization, at the request of the Government of Dahomey, in preventing the possible outbreak of epidemics threatened by the disastrous inundations from which the city of Cotonou continues to suffer, as a result of persistent torrential rains.

A WHO sanitary engineer, already on the spot, and a WHO Medical Officer who arrived over the week-end, are conferring with the Government to ascertain the stricken city's requirements in medical personnel and medicaments. Another WHO Medical Officer is on the way from Ouagadogou, Upper Volta. A third Medical Officer has been diverted to Cotonou, on his way from WHO Headquarters in Geneva to the Regional Office for Africa, at Brazzaville.

Furthermore, additional WHO medical personnel, including doctors, nurses and sanitary engineers, stationed at field projects in various parts of Africa, have been alerted to stand by for departure to Cotonou, if their presence is needed.

Farming Tractors For Kenya Farms

NAIROBI—The importance of machinery to the new African farmers on their small-holdings, was stressed by Mr. Michael Blundell, Kenya Minister of Agriculture at the Royal Show in Nairobi, when he handed over two Massey-Ferguson tractors to the principals of two leading Agricultural training colleges.

"No farmers," he declared, "could be successful without understanding machinery, and the problem facing the Africans was how to obtain maximum output without having to carry on old-fashioned methods."

The tractors, an MF35 and an MF65, together with two disc ploughs, an offset forager and an offset disc harrow, were a gift from Massey-Ferguson to Egerton College, in the Kenya Highlands, and Siriba College, not far from the shores of Lake Victoria.

Founder Of German Radio Dies

BERLIN—Dr. Kurt Magnus, whose name is intimately connected with the history of German radio, died recently at the age of 75 years. Dr. Magnus played a leading role in the organisation and development of the broadcasting system in Germany.

He was one of those people who establised the Berliner Funstunde in 1923.

Two years later, he and State Secretary Bredow founded the Reichsrundfunk-Gesellschaft, in which were associated the nine independent broadcastidg corporations that existed in Germany at that time. At first Dr. Magnus was the association's business manager, later the chairman of its board. He actively participated in the planning of the radio programmes of that day.

In 1933, Dr. Magnus was ousted from his position by the Nazis. Immediately after World War II, however, he placed himself at the disposal of re-organisers of German radio.

The legal form of the German broadcasting system is largely his work. Towards the end of his life he was chairman of the administrative board of the radio station in Hesse. He held this position until his death.
