Story of a Successful Trader

Mr. N. S. Shofoluwe

and The United Africa Company work together for prosperity

After leaving school in Lagos in 1924 Mr. N. S. Shofoluwe trained for 2 years to be a teacher. But then he saw opportunities in trading and joined the Niger Company. Today he is an important trader in Zaria with a very large turnover in stockfish, blankets, bicycles and other merchandise. He employs 3 store-keepers and many labourers.

As an employee of the Niger Company, and later The United Africa Company, Mr. Shofoluwe worked in many branches and gained valuable experience. In 1950 he became a Company trader in Zaria, in business on his own. With a flourishing business, his own home and the means to educate his children well he appreciates the help given him by the Company, with whose managers he is in daily touch. He looks forward to continuing his association with the Company for many prosperous years ahead.

Hundreds of African traders rely on The United Africa Company to bring them goods from all over the world—and many of them started successful businesses with stock supplied on credit by the Company, helped by advice from its Managers. To The United Africa Company every trader is an important source of information on the needs of African buyers, so that both the trader and the Company profit by their friendship in business together.
