C. I. D. Man Gets Experience With British Police

LONDON — A six-week training course in the finger-print department of a British constabulary head-quarters has given a Nigerian detective his first opportunity to use his knowledge at the scene of a real crime.

He is Constable Anthony Ibeneme, of C.I.D. Head-quarters, Lagos, who has been working with British police experts on crime investigation in the towns in the West Riding of York-shire.

"They gave me every chance to gain valuable practical experiance in examining for fingerprints some stolen cars and burgled premises. The amount of skill that goes into their work is fascinating," he told an L. P. S. correspondent yesterday.

Mr. Ibeneme, whose home is at Ogbelulu, Orlu District, Eastern Nigeria has been taking a course at the Wakefield headquaters of the Yorkshire Constabulary.

"The course has covered more advanced work than I have done before and the experience will be of great value to me when I go home," he said.

Nigerian Piiot Qualifies In England

Perth-A cross-country flight over snow-covered ground in Britain has won a commercial pilot's licence for a young Nigerian who is training to become an airline pilot with Airwork Services Training Ltd. at Perth aerodrome, Scotland.

He is 23-year-old Frank A. E. Osakwe of Onitsha, Eastern Nigeria who began training at the Perth Flying School in November, 1961 and hopes to join Nigeria Airways early in the new year after taking his instrument rating examinations.

"The training at Perth is very sound, said Mr Osakwa. "There is everything that any trainee could want and the instructors are all first–class pilots who take a genuine interest in their pupils."

Frank is one of an annual quota of Nigerians taken for training at Perth to provide both pilots and ground engnners for Nigeria Airlines. Airwork Services have trained some 40,000 air and ground crews from all over the world sinceit was founded about 30 years ago.

FLYING FOOTBALLERS!

The goalkeeper won this jumping duel during an English second division football match between Grimsby Town and Charlton at the latter's Valley Stadium in London recently.

Here goalkeeper Wakeham is head and shoulders above Grimsby's centre-forward McLean and his own defenders, to tip the ball safely away from the goal-mouth.

The load is heavy, the ground difficult, the engine is working at full power and yet the driver has perfect control. The light Mercedes-Benz recirculating ball steering is precise to a fraction of an inch. Exact manoeuvering, safe use of marginal space, absolute track steadiness and excellent lock are features of this steering which is just one of the many advantages that all Mercedes-Benz trucks and buses have in common.
