Princess Anne Becomes Pupil of Benende School

Princess Anne, who celebrated her 13th birthday on August 15th 1952, goes to Benenden School in Kent, England. She thus follows the new Royal pattern set by her brother Prince Charles the Prince of Wales, who is now at Gordonstoun School in Scotland. Previously, all children of the British Royal Family have been educated privately.

Benenden School stands in 200 acres of parkland near Cranbrook in the Weald of Kent. With some 300 pupils, it is divided into six houses; Princess Anne will join Guildford House as one of 20 girls in the lower fifth form. As a new girl, she will sleep in a dormitory accommodation up to eight girls in a room, make her own bed, take her turn at laying the tables for evening meal, and at week-ends she may be called on to help with the washing up occasionally.

Britain Backs Jamaica:

On 'Human Rights Year' Move

NEW YORK—A Jamaican resolution, which would have the General Assembly designate the year 1968 as International Year for Human Rights, received whole-hearted support from British delegate, Mr. Patrick Atlee, when it was introduced into the General Assembly's Social, Humanitarian and Cultural Committee.

It was, agreed Mr. Atlee, desirable to begin work on this project at once.

The year 1968 will be twentieth anniversary of the adoption of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, and the resolution was passed unanimously by the Committee on the eve of Human Rights Day (December 10).

The resolution, which sixteen other nations joined Jamaica in co-sponsoring, requests the U. N. Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) to invite the Commission on Human Rights to prepare, in conjunction with the U. N. Secretary-General, a programme of activities by member states and the U. N. Specialised Agencies in celebration of this twentieth anniversary and to prepare a list of goals to be achieved not later than the end of 1968.

It also invites member states to intensify their domestic efforts in the field of human rights in preparation for an international review of these to be held in 1968.

Circulated by the Commonwealth Economic Committee in London.

Between January and September last year Britain bought 517 cwt. of Nigerian lemons. This year the figure was more than double—1192 cwt.

Another increase for Nigeria is noted under the heading "other fruit"—this excludes citrus fruit and bananas as well as a money stone fruits. The figure given for the first nine months of 1962 as British imports from Nigeria is 1091 cwt. in the same period this year it rose to 3188 cwt.

But Nigeria has been sending fewer grapefruit—828 cwt. in the first nine months of last year compare with 460 cwt. in the same period this year.

And there has also been a slight drop in the quantities of canned grapefruit Nigeria has been sending to Britain—from 1,695 cwt. in the first nine months of last year to 1,009 cwt. in the same period this year.

Nigerian Cadets On Parade At Dartmouth

LONDON—Two young Nigerians will be among the cadets taking part in the passing out parade at the Britannia Royal Naval College, Dartmouth next Monday, December 16.

They are Joseph Acka and Peter Hemben, both of whom live at Gboko.

The parade marks the end of the term at the College. A total of 569 officers under training will be taking part.

After leaving the College, Midshipmen Acka and Hemben will serve for fifteen months aboard British naval vessels to gain practical experience of life in navy at sea.

Invisible Xmas Guests To Aid The Hungry

LONDON—There will be an 'invisible guest' at the dinner tables of thousands of British families this Christmas, as the result of a 'Freedom-from-Hunger' fund—raising campaign which was launched in London last Tuesday, by Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother.

The Fund's United Kingdom Committee is asking families all over Britain to set an extra place at their Christmas dinner table and to send the cost of the extra meal to boost the funds.

The Queen Mother spoke of the tragic human problem—"more than half the people of the world in dire poverty and hungry"—before receiving a cheque from a cinema appeal which raised almost £30,000.

She also accepted cheques from housewives, including Lady Douglas—Home, wife of the Prime Minister.

British Bank Forms Partnership In Nigeria

LONDON—The London merchant bankers, Philip Hill, Higginson, Erlanger, have finalised arrangements for a partnership in Nigeria with two leading continental banks.

They are the Credit Lyonnais of France, and Italy's Banca Commerciale Italiana. Each is taking a 30 per cent interest in Philip Hill (Nigeria), formed three years ago.

Philip Hill, Higginson Erlanger will retain the remaining 40 per cent. One of the bank's directors Mr. J. R. Colville, is Chairman of the Nigerian company.

This new arrangement should help channel funds from Europe into Nigeria for development," Mr. Colville told our correspondent on Monday Dec. 9.

The two banks who have joined us are among the most important in their own countries and should bring considerable benefit to Nigeria. This arrangement will help in the creation of a strong money market in Lagos, he added.

Philip Hill (Nigeria), specialises in providing acceptance credits and new issue facilities.
