Enwonwu's Work Presents To University College Ibadan

An interesting and pleasant ceremony took place at the beginning of the meeting of the provisional Council of the University College, Ibadan on the 17th June when Professor Welch, Vice-Principal, invited the Chairman of the Council to take over on behalf of the College a bust of Dr. Mellanby by Mr Ben Enwonwu.

In taking over the bust Sir Sydney Phillipson stated that he counted it a privilege to receive on behalf of the College such a splendid specimen of Mr Enwonwu's work to serve as a memorial forever of the brilliant services of the first Principal during the difficult formative years of the College.

The College owes this gift to the liberality of a considerable number of people who desired in this way to place on record their admiration of Dr. Mellanby's work. The head will in due course be placed in the Trenchard Assembly Hall. The donors have presented a replica of this work of art to Dr and Mrs Mellanby for their retention.

Farmers Bank Echoes In The House Of Commons

Mr Sorensen inquired about the position of the Nigerian Farmers Bank. He alleged that most of creditors wanted the Bank re-opened, and ask what the Administrators-General was doing in the matter. Mr. Lyttelton said that the Nigerian Farmers and Commercial Bank went into voluntary liquidation on the 12th December and Supreme Court made a compulsory winding-up order on the 6th Febuary.

An appeal against this order had been dismissed by the West African Court of Appeal, but the voluntary liquidator had been granted conditional leave to apply to the Privy Council. After several extensions of time the books were now being handed over to the Official Receiver, Mr. Lyttelton added that he had no information suggesting that the creditors would like the Bank to be re-opened.

New Drug For Hot Climates

British research chemists waging war against shock which results from loss of blood after accidents or during operations, have now armed hospitals with a new drug.

It is particularly suitable for use in sparsely populated countries where, because of the absence of "banks„ which store blood from donors, treatment of shock by blood transfusion is virtually impossible.

Dextraven is the name which has been given to an entirely new form of dextran which hospitals in Britain are now using for infusion into the patient's body to restore blood volume and pressure.
