The Death Of Olubadan :

The death of a well addressed age of 55 years was announced as having occurred on Wednesday, March 12, 1952, of His Highness, Fajana II the Olubadan of Ibadan Western Division, the largest city in the whole of British West Africa.

The deceased was a member of Western House of Chiefs, was married the Olubadan only in 1948.

Through his reign was a short-lived one yet it was essential throughout and the world was that made it remarkably successful were his death in the memory to lend any reputation here.

Suffice it to say that the departed Nafara had played his own part as well as tragic part in a man in life and as an Oba in the throne of the land of the Oyo.

As any of his predecessors before him in this his position in the throne.

May the Oba and his people and may God Himself direct the Ibadan King-makers to choose a successor to his throne.
