Nigerian Women:

Social Welfare Leaders in Britain

LONDON Four social welfare leaders, all of the Nigerian Federation of Business and Professional Women, are now in Great Britain as guests of the British Governmen.

They are Mrs. J. Awokoya, Headmistress of the Domestic Science Centre, Girls Modern Academy, Lagos; Mrs. A L D Ajayu, President of the Business and Professional Women's Society in Enugu, Mrs. A T Banjo of Lagos, a housewife and voluntary workea for the Y W C A and the Nigerian Leprosy Relief Assocation: and Mrs. E.O. Priddy, Headmistress of the Anglican Girls' Secondary Modern School Ibadan.

They begin their tour by visits in London to the headquaters of the British Red Cross Society the Y W C A and National Council for Women. They will have discussions at the Commonwealth Relations Office and the Ministry of Education, see examples of nursery and comprehensive schools run by the London County Council and lunch at the Women's Press Club.

On leaving London they will tour Wales and south west England and later travel to Scotland for sightseeing and to meet teachers and voluntary workers from women's organisations. The four ladies will return to Nigeria on '11th December,

British Prime Miniter Says:

All Talk And Thought Of War To End

LONDON – On his first appearance as Prime Minister at the Lord Mayor's Banquet in Guildhall London, last Monday night, Sir Alec Douglas-Home declared that Britain had the right, the duty and the authority to respond to the longing of the world's nations that she would exercise her full influence on the world stage. Her Foreign Secretary would have to conduct perhaps the biggest diplomatic operation of all time, said Sir Alec, because his aim was nothing less than to reverse the thinking and actions of men throughout the ages.

"He must take the message to 'the international councils that man must stop fighting wars and give up thinking of settling disputes by war," the Prime Minister said "Statesmen of the world c nnot use such phrases as 'OVER OUR DEAD BODIES,' because that means war."

All the difficulties, including Berlin, must be settled by negotiation, no matter how long these negotiations might last, because, said Sir Alec, 'There is no other way' The dictum that 'war is a continuation of diplomacy by other means" must not be heard again.

Sir Alec continued: "If war, which has been the traditional method by which we have settled our disputes, is to be ruled out of order now, certainly by the major powers and if the aggressive instincts are to give place to self-preservation, then Mr. Butler must go out into the world and tell the people to turn back in their tracks."

"Peace and security is our goal, and we passionately seek it, Sir Alec Said. "We know that war impoverishes us as a nation and xhausts our people."

"I believe we may be over the watershed of danger with the Soviet Union but if so it is because the the deterrent has deterred and above all because the Polaris submarine, as a second strike weapon, has convinced the Soviet Union that war is too dangerous."

Nuclear arm could not be wicked or too expensive commented Sir Alec, if the deterrent stopped war.

British Troops Will Move From Kenya

NAIROBI— British troops at present stationed in Kenya will be withdrawn during the first year after the country's independence on December 12.

The timing has been agreed by the British and Kenya Governments and details of the phased troop movements have been announced from East Africa Command Headquarters, in Nairobi.

The 1st Battalion, the Gordon Highlanders, will be moved to Edinburgh in March. The 2nd Battalion, the Scots Guards, go to Pirbright later in the year and the last quarter of the year.

Units of the Royal Horse Artillery, the Royal Engineers and the Staffordshire Regiment will return to Britain. Head quarters of 24 Infantry Brigade Group, to which all troops in Kenya belong, are destined for Aden along with most of the Brigade's administrative units.

The future of the static workshop and depots in East Africa is "under active consideration with the Kenya Gorvernment," said the Nairobi statement.

African Workers Get More Pay In Rhodesia

N. RHODESIA—The National Union of Commercial and Industrial workers in Nothern Rhodesia have seccessfully concluded an agreement on wages and service conditions for African shop workers.

The new agreement provides a 40 per cent wage increase for employees earning not more than £25 per month, and increases ranging from 15 to 25 per cent for other categories. This implies that the lowest paid employes, formerly on £8 5/- will now receive £11 11/-. In the case of salesmen the increase is £9 5/- to £16 13/- The new rate for senior salemen is £20 5/- These new rates apply to towns on the rail line from Bencroft to Livingstone; shop employees in the rural areas will normally get two-thirds of the Town rates.

Paid leave entitlement is now 24 days a year instead of 21 and there is provision for overtime and for subsistence allowance of 22s 6d a night in the towns and 12s. in rural areas. There was no agreement on the unions' demand for an average rent allowance of £5 a month. The matter has been referred to the Minister of Laboar for ruling. The Minister has also been asked to work out on a national basis a provident fund scheme.

The new agreement puts employees into categories (including tailors, drivers, office workers, repairers of watches, shoes, bicycles and wireless sets, etc) for pay purposes.

Majority Rule In Southern Rhodesia

LONDON

Majority rule giving protection for minorities will guide the British Government when they come to make decisions about the future of Southern Rodesia, said the British Prime Minister, Sir Alec Doglass-Home yesterday, Tuesday.

Sir Alec, speaking on foreign affairs in the debate on the Queen's Speech which opened the Parliamentary session was making his first appearance in the House of Commons since taking over the premiership.

The leader of the Opposition, Mr. Harol Wilson, inter-vening, asked the Prime Minister to make it clear that in Southern Rodesia there were to be protection for the rights of majorities and whether he would pledge that independence would not be granted until Southern Rodesia had a democratic constitution.

Sir Alec said he brough it had been implicit in what he had said that the Government respected the principile that the majority should rule "The very essence of a true democracy is that every minority, whether black or white, should be protected, he added.
